A Rich History

On January 15, 1965, Washtenaw County residents went to the polls and voted overwhelmingly - 11,109 in favor and 5,085 opposed - to establish the two-year college and elect its first Board of Trustees.

WCC's first board chair Samuel Harmon, listed these as among the most important accomplishments of that first board, which served from 1965 to 1967:

- The decision that the college should be a multi-purpose institution emphasizing technical-vocational programs, while at the same time offering strong college transfer and general education, and
- The decision to pursue an open door admissions policy whereby a student is accepted on the basis of what he or she is ready to do, rather than what he has done.

Since then, Washtenaw Community College in Ann Arbor has served as an open door to all in the community, while striving to make a difference in people's lives through accessible and excellent educational programs and services.

WCC has continued to meet business and industry needs for an even more highly skilled workforce. Whether pursuing an academic degree or certificate or learning new skills through the college's professional development and continuing education offerings, WCC students receive world-class instruction to prepare them to meet life's many challenges.

Student Speaker Biographies

Sabrina Lanker is a Math & Natural Science Transfer graduate who intends to major in Earth and Environmental Science at the University of Michigan. She is employed at both the WCC Student Development and Activities Office and the Health and Fitness Center at WCC. She is also Vice President of Communications for the Phi Theta Kappa national honors society, president of Comunidad Española, a Spanish conversation club, a member of the STEM Scholars program and a Democracy Fellow for the Campus Vote Project. Sabrina has a passion for the environment and through the National Science Foundation, she will be attending a geology internship in Greenland this summer. She hopes to one day work for the National Park Service or U.S. Geological Survey to conserve land for future generations and help end climate change.

Abdur-Raheem Al-Hallak is a Pre-Engineering Science Transfer graduate who will be moving on to complete a degree in Electrical Engineering at the University of Michigan. He has been a proud employee of WCC's Writing Center and serves as an officer for the WCC chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa National Honor Society. Beyond pursuing his own academic goals with his passion for mathematics, he loves using it to get others interested in the subject and hopes to, one day, put that passion to good use as a math professor.

Academic Processional and Regalia

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries, when universities were first taking form. Long gowns were worn and may have been necessary for warmth in unheated buildings. The design of the cap, or mortarboard, resulted from combining two different types of caps commonly worn in medieval times. The first was a black skullcap and the second was a tufted, square cap called a pileus quadratus. The tufted cap evolved into a stiff-cornered cap that would not drape across the wearer's face. The term "mortarboard" was first used in an 1854 novel, The Adventures of Mr. Verdant Green, as a sarcastic reference to the cap's shape.

The master's gown includes a hood that is worn around the neck and hangs down the back. The lining of the hood is the official color or colors of the university that conferred the degree. The velvet trim color indicates the discipline in which the degree was earned. White, taken from the white fur trim of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods, is assigned to arts and letters. Golden yellow, standing for the wealth which scientific research has produced, is assigned to the sciences. Light blue is used for education, dark blue for philosophy and purple for law.

Another major distinguishing characteristic of the gown is the sleeves: associate and bachelor, long pointed; master, oblong; doctor and specialist, bell-shaped. The doctor's gown has a velvet collar facing, and three bars on the sleeves. The specialist's gown is similar to a doctor's except that it has no sleeve bars.

The mace used in Washtenaw's commencement exercises was designed and built by David Byrd, a former faculty member, in the early 1970s. The various parts of the mace represent program areas of the college—a tire for automotive programs, a gear for industrial manufacturing, a graduated beaker for chemistry and health programs, and a cup and saucer for culinary arts and hospitality. The top of the mace is a torch of learning—signifying the overall mission of the college.
