From WCC to 33-Year Career in Education

Randy Fielder

Randy Fielder, a student at WCC's first campus in Ypsilanti in 1969, says one of his favorite memories was attending classes in Quonset huts, the military-grade, prefabricated shelters. Just as a Quonset hut was an unusual setting for a classroom, Fielder, by his own admission, was an unlikely college candidate.

"I was emotionally immature in high school, and as a result I did poorly my first two years. My junior and senior years were much better," says Fielder.

"At the time of graduation, I was unsure of where I wanted to go with my life. I wasn't even sure I wanted to go to college ... [but] the military draft was in full swing to supply fodder for Vietnam, so males couldn't afford to take a semester off to explore their options." That factor and a conversation with a cousin clinched Fielder's decision to go to WCC.

He says the College provided a high-quality education and gave him time to decide what he wanted to do with his life. He set his career goal of teaching elementary school while at WCC. He attributed the lower cost of WCC courses as instrumental in his ability to pay for his education at Eastern Michigan University. After graduating from WCC with his General Studies Associate, he earned his Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education in 1973 at EMU.

Shortly after his graduation, he began teaching at Adrian Public Schools. "I taught mostly fourth and fifth grades, along with a little third grade and physical education.

Fielder went on to earn his master's degree in Guidance and Counseling at EMU in 1979 while instructing young students. After he retired from his 33-year career in 2006, he became a member of the Adrian school board in 2010.

Fielder praises the College for his experience. "Whenever I can, I talk up the quality and value of a community college education in general, and WCC specifically."

TRAINER PROFILE

Clair Dickson | INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

Clair Dickson is a WCC instructor for several courses developed under the Connected Cars and Advanced Transportation grant. The courses include a series of classes in Microsoft Excel, XML coding and courses in Smartsheet.

Dickson attended Washtenaw Community College for two years before transferring to Eastern Michigan University. She earned a degree in secondary English education and became a high school English and history teacher. She taught in an alternative high school program, then moved to teaching online.

Alongside teaching, Dickson also worked in instructional design, and this is where she became involved with Microsoft Office certification training. As Dickson worked on Microsoft Excel courses in the early 2000s, she began to enjoy the power and possibility of data analysis and Microsoft Excel. In 2007, she passed the Microsoft certification exams and became a Microsoft Office master.

Dickson appreciates the opportunity to work at WCC, especially teaching the lessons related to traffic and car data, as she truly enjoys helping others learn about Excel, an in-demand skill necessary for all levels of jobs in a wide variety of fields. For her, working on Excel formulas and functions is her idea of (nerdy) fun.

Thanks to epic movies and widescreen TVs, we're now used to widescreen cinema, but the format has a much longer history. Explore the development of widescreen cinema, from early experimentation to the mid-1950s, as cinemas aspired to woo audiences attracted to the convenience of television back into theaters. Watch classic films and see how these epic pictures represent American ideals, values and perspectives.

Hinduism originated in India and is one of the world's oldest religions with roots and customs dating back more than 4,000 years. In this richly illustrated class, you will learn about some of the fundamental concepts of the religion. We will get to know some important rituals, Hindu art and temple architecture, and we will study some of Hinduism's most popular gods through their fascinating stories captured in India's literary epics.

Buddhism

Buddhism is variously understood as a religion, a philosophy, or a set of beliefs and practices based on the teachings of the Buddha, the "Awakened One" who lived in the 5th-century BCE. In this class, you will come to understand some of the most important concepts of the religion, such as the Four Noble Truths, the Eightfold Path and Nirvana. We will get to know Buddhist art and architecture, and follow the Buddha on his path from a wealthy prince to a spiritual leader.

RELIGIONS
of the World

Taoism and Confucianism

Taoism is a Chinese philosophy based on the writings of Lao-tzu who flourished in the 6th-century BCE. Lao-tzu advocated humility and religious piety and focused on living in harmony with nature. Taoism's "counterpart" Confucianism, is also an ancient Chinese belief system, that focuses on the importance of personal ethics and morality. Whether both of them are a philosophy or a religion is debatable. In this class, we will compare and contrast these two schools of thoughts and see how they are working together as the "Yin and Yang" of Chinese society.

Policies/Information

Class Drop/Refund Policy: Drops are accepted up to the start of the first class. No refunds are given, for any reason, once the class starts. Mandatory fees will only be refunded if a class is dropped at least 72 hours prior to the start of the first class. You may request a drop from a class:

- If you registered online or in person, contact our offices at 734-677-5060 or ecdevelopment@wccnet.edu.
- If you registered by mail, include your full name, address, class title, class number and class ID, and send your request to Division of Economic and Community Development, ML 104, Washtenaw Community College, 4800 East Huron River Drive, Ann Arbor, MI 48105-4800.

Cancellations: Washtenaw Community College reserves the right to cancel or reschedule a class that does not meet minimum paid enrollment. Participants will be notified of cancellations via email or phone.

Mandatory Fees: Some classes require additional fees for supplies or materials. These are noted in the online class details. All mandatory fees must be paid at the time of registration. Check the website for the most up-to-date fee information.

Location and Parking: A majority of classes are held on the main campus of WCC. The locations of off-campus classes are in the class details. Parking on campus is now easier than ever with the new, centrally located parking structure. For additional parking info and directions, visit wccnet.edu/about-us/visiting.

What is a CEU? A CEU (continuing education unit) is a national measurement unit. One CEU equals 10 classroom or equivalent hours and is used to record, transfer and recognize participation in noncredit classes.

Mailing List Statement: Please note every effort is made to remove individuals or businesses that have requested, in writing, to be deleted from Washtenaw Community College's mailing lists and/or database. WCC obtains mailing lists and data from many sources and cannot guarantee you will be eliminated from every mailing.
