Course Description: This course covers the use of the Internet in teaching. Forums, on-line teaching, chat rooms, on-line assignments, e-mail, and other Internet features are explained and demonstrated. These Internet teaching techniques can be used with courses offered completely on-line or to supplement traditional classroom courses. Methods for converting traditional class materials into an on-line format are emphasized. Procedures and standards for web page creation and maintenance are also presented. Students gain hands-on experience in creating on-line course materials and uploading to a server.
